

Join the fight against Neuroendocrine Cancers

Neuroendocrine cancers are the fastest growing class of cancers worldwide.

Neuroendocrine Tumours (NETS) is the umbrella terms for a group of unusual, often slow-growing cancers, which develop from cells in the diffuse endocrine system. They are found most commonly in the lung or gastrointestinal system, but they can also originate in other parts of the body such as the pancreas, ovary and testes.

Support CNETS Canada

(Carcinoid NeuroEndocrine Tumour Society Canada)

Join a Nature Walk through the

Thames Talbot Tract of the Five Points Forest

On Sept 25th, 2011 at 1:00pm

Located east of 4921 Robinson Road, Thames Centre

Help us raise funds for NET Cancer Research

For information, email driedger@execulink.com

Make a contribution to CNETS Canada's research program: receipts will be issued.
Alternatively, contribute via <http://www.cnetscanada.org/>.